November 9, 2005

Dear Friends,

I join with the Heritage Foundation, the Center for Freedom and Prosperity, and the Centre for Independent Studies in welcoming you to the November 14th Tax Competition Conference. Tax competition is the driving force for tax reform all over the world. Like many of my Senate colleagues, I am a strong opponent of tax harmonization schemes. The sovereign right of governments to determine their domestic economic policies should not be constrained by other governments.

I look forward to receiving copies of the papers and discussion materials from your Conference. I applaud your commitment to pro-growth, individual freedom policies. Stay strong for Freedom!

With warm regards, I remain

Sincerely,
